

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display unit includes a plurality of panels joined to each other into one display screen. Each of the panels is formed by using organic EL devices. In this display unit, a seal material is applied to a joint portion between adjacent two of the panels in such a manner as to cover the joint portion, to thereby suppress permeation of moisture, air, and the like in the organic EL devices.